Caroline represents clients in complex civil litigation in federal and state courts. She has experience at all stages of litigation, including discovery, motion practice, trial, and appeals. She has prepared key fact and expert witnesses for depositions and trial. And she has argued critical motions and cross-examined witnesses in a federal court trial.

Caroline joins Goldman Ismail after clerking for two years on the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals. During her clerkship, she prepared bench memoranda and drafted judicial opinions. In her second year, she had supervisory responsibilities.

Caroline graduated with honors from The University of Chicago and The University of Chicago Law School. In law school, she advanced to the final round of the Edward W. Hinton Moot Court Competition and participated in the Supreme Court and Appellate Clinic.
